The feature of the Childhood Days The feature of the Childhood Days programme was the violin selections of Leonard Davis, New England's four-year-old wonder violinist. It was Davis' last appearance before the local public and in appreciation of his delightful interpretation he was presented a silver loving cup, the gift of St. Cecelia's choir, incorpressation being made by Leonel Chasse. Other features of the first part were Regina Racicott in novelty dencing and the French Trlo, of Hartford, in song hits. In the minstrels, local songsters kept things moving with new songs and Thre three days' masjon given recently at St. Andrew's church by Father S. A. Iclek of New Britain, editor-in-chief of the Catholic Leader of that city, was a success. Never before in the history of St. Andrew's parish have so many Polish people attend services as dur-ing the three days of the mission. Fath-er Iciek, who has preached in practically every Polish parish in this country and some in Poland, gave many an impressive sermen, which at times had his congregation in tears, as it brought them back to their former homes, many of which are now devastated. The Polleh people of this town expressed their appreciation to Father Ford and Father Sullivan for obtaining the services of Father Iciek. They all hope that he may be able to retur again to preach to them, as he made many friends here.

On Monday, March 20, the management of the Davis theatre announces the new policy of this popular theatre. There will be five acts of the better class of will be not acts of the better class of vandeville and feature intotoplays. The main reason why Mr. Davis did not put in vaudeville was this. The feature ple tures have to be contracted for one year in advance; at the time Mr. Davis agued these contracts the people of Notwich dinot seem to care for vaudeville but wanted not seem to care for vaudeville but wanted a change, so Mr. Davis signed up contracts that did not expire until this month. He could not break these contracts with the moving pictures exchanges as he had contracted for six pictures each week. With the vaudeville he will use two of the pictures each week. It has cost Mr. Davis thousands of dollars on account of not being sible to put in vaudeville when he wanted to. But that is a long story, so why bother you with it, as he will never sign up any more long term contracts. We want to please the people of Norwich at all times. What you want hereafter you are going to get. The vaudeville will be are going to get. The vaudeville will be a fixed policy at the Davis theatre from now on.
